VIENNA Jan 1—The authorities at Warsaw are excited over the spread of brigandage in Russian Poland

The province of Radom, adjoining Austrian Galicia, has recently been invaded by a band of twenty brigands, led by a notorious robber chief named Julian Vost These robbers grew so bold that they attacked the residence of a wealthy land owner named Vetchkovitch, whom they forced to pay their blackmail. They slaughtered the livestock found on the place and after plundering the house, set it on fire. The owner himself, succeeded in escaping from the house and took refuge on the roof of a stable where he remained unnoticed by the robbers, who did not set fire to the stable. Vetchkovitch was badly burned in escaping from his house, and suffered greatly while in concealment. Some of his employes carried word of the outrage to the authorities, and on the following day a force of troops went in pursuit of the brigands who made slow progress on account of being loaded with plunder. The troops overtook the robbers in a forest, where a skirmish occurred. The robbers made a desperate resistance and wounded several of the soldiers but the bandits were at last subdued and taken prisoners.

The troops then made their way to the abode of Vost, the robber chief. There they found in possession of the place Nicholas Vost, dressed up in a rich style. In the house of Vost's father a quantity of valuable plunder from the robberies was found. Vost and his father were taken to Radom and placed in a dungeon. The band of robbers numbered 60 men, making a basis — [illegible] Cossacks are now in the neighborhood of Radom [illegible] to the brigands.

[illegible] Both branches of the legislature after effecting an organization took a recess until 3 p. m. At that hour they reassembled and listened to the reading of Governor Pattison's message.

Nebraska Legislature

OMAHA, Neb., Jan 3 Both houses were called to order at noon An attempt was made to organize the senate It began with a ballot for temporary secretary and resulted in a strict party vote Republicans, 14 Populists, 14 and Democrats 1 The senate then adjourned until 3 p m When secretary of state Allen reached Knox county in the house roll call he called Chester Norton the Republican There was a protest from Populists and Democrats but the protest was overridden and the roll call proceeded although the Populists refused to answer to their names After roll call came a motion to proceed to the election of temporary speaker, and I T Sheridan of Red Willow county, Populist, was chosen by the combined vote of the Populists and Democrats who mustered 51 votes against 48 for Church Howe, the Republican nominee A committee of five on credentials was appointed, and the house took a recess till 3 p m

A Combine Arranged in Montana

HELENA, Mont., Jan 3.—Yesterday it was thought possible that the Democrats would organize a separate house, as they had withdrawn from the hall, but to-day they were all present, and joining with the Populists, elected Thomas Matthews, Populist, speaker, and H J Winey, Democrat, chief clerk The details of the "combine" are unknown, but it gives the Democrats a majority on joint ballot for United States senator.

Two Deaths from Voodoo

LOUISVILLE, Jan 3 The negroes living in the west end are in a high state of mind. It seems that Frank Sims a colored resident of the Point, voted Democratic at the late presidential election When this fact became known among Sims' acquaintances, the latter, particularly his female friends, began voodooing him for giving his allegiance to Grover Cleveland Their taunts and gibes were of such a nature and so frequent that it is said they drove his lady friend affected with a bad case of voodoosm He gradually grew worse and finally the celebrated "voodoo" doctor George Fremont, colored, was summoned to attend the patient The case is the subject of conversation among the colored people living in that section of the city Last Friday Sims died, and there was received interest taken in the mysterious death.

Yesterday morning the matter took a more serious turn when Fremont, the voodoo doctor, himself died It is said his death was due to voodooism. Sims' family is much worked up over the affair, and it is said that they refused to bury him Sims' brother however, buried him yesterday

Death of Dr. Shaw.

BOSTON, Jan. 3.—Dr. Alexander Shaw, chief of the state horticultural department of the World's Fair and one of the board of World's Fair managers, died today, aged 78 years.

CITY COUNCIL.

Alderman Finegan Asks That No Pay be Given Absent City Officials

THE CHEYENNE MINING SCHEME

A Discussion Of the Payment on the Bijou Viaduct Alderman Gilling Same View Matters of Routine Business.

Evidently California has charms for the city council which Colorado Springs hath not The members were absent from the meeting last night and they are all in the land of flowers First, Mayor Sprague departed [illegible] in his wake followed Alderman Eaton of the Fourth And only last week Alderman D W Robbins shook the dust of this town from his feet and left also

And their story has been a tale.

It was when the salary roll came up for discussion last night Alderman Finegan arose to remark that he understood that the mayor and aldermen had drawn their salaries in advance before leaving for California, and he wanted to know what right they had to do this

Acting mayor Davis, who continues the business at the old stand, said regarding Mayor Sprague's salary—his honor having gone on Oct. 6 that the mayor's salary for November was sent him after it was allowed by the council, but as to whether or not the October salary was paid in advance he could not state.

Mr Finegan then asked if when a man had taken up his abode 2000 miles away and had taken his family, and was building a house, if that didn't constitute a removal of his residence.

The city attorney did not think it did [illegible] From a legal point of view he thought a suit against the [illegible] would be to enjoin the clerk from paying the salary, or to make the [illegible] would be [illegible]

Alderman Gilling said, "I understand that of the persons [illegible] of all [illegible] city in [illegible] would [illegible] or [illegible] so that [illegible] city for [illegible]

[illegible] mind [illegible] to [illegible] who [illegible] He [illegible] taken [illegible] pointed to [illegible] of [illegible]

[illegible] the meeting at 11 o'clock Mr. [illegible] why [illegible] man could go to Denver and make such a [illegible] with the railroad company by which the city was done out of $200

Alderman Dunbar said his committee could not tell why such a contract had been made but he was certain that it was made and that committee could not go behind the returns

Mr Taylor of the finance committee, stated that he had not been consulted in the above matter and that was the reason why the committee had not reported. He knew, however, that a letter had been sent to [illegible] telling the railroad that the council had nothing to do with the action of the previous council

In the midst of the discussion a motion to adjourn was made and carried

The Columbian Naval Review

WASHINGTON Jan 3—Secretary Tracy of the navy department is now considering plans for making the Columbian naval review, to be held in April a success, but the fact that a change in the administration is to be made in March is said to render the task of making the preliminary arrangements somewhat embarrassing The arrangement of the details of the proposed review is a big undertaking and the event will take place at such a time that the coming secretary can do little more than finish the preparations begun by his predecessor and endeavor to put them into successful execution. The present head of the department, therefore, claims to be interested in his efforts to make the demonstration worthy of the occasion by a desire to avoid the making of any arrangements that may not fully accord with the ideas of his successor, as the entire responsibility for the success or failure of the demonstration will fall on incoming secretary, the present secretary naturally prefers that his successor should have nothing to complain about [illegible] plan of the officers The review, however, follows so soon after the [illegible] into office that he will have more than enough time to arrange the details for the execution of the plan

[illegible] that Admiral [illegible] who [illegible] to the [illegible] of the Army [illegible] will not [illegible] in [illegible] to [illegible] in making [illegible]

In Colorado Springs has during the past two years not increased much in price, but has all the time been steadily increasing in value. This is the natural result of an increase in population. Just as soon as our improving values are understood an increase in prices will inevitably follow. Activity and higher prices will follow an improvement in intrinsic values just as certainly as day succeeds night. Why not anticipate the coming conditions and buy now while prices are under actual values? It would be common sense business to do so. I offer some bargains.

A BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS

At the last session of the Legislature a bill was passed under which this city was permitted to establish a Board of Public Works. Owing, however, to an unfortunate defect in the bill, the board, though appointed, refrained from exercising any of its functions, for fear that the legality of its actions might be called in question.

There is, if anything, more reason why such a board should be established now than there was two years ago. It is plainly evident that the construction and maintenance of public works can be better supervised by a board such as the law provides, appointed by a Governor [illegible], than by the City Council, the members of that ever worked body have expressed themselves freely in favor of laying the labor off their hands. It is [illegible] that a bill [illegible] of two years ago, but with it the district will be introduced [illegible] at the coming session of the Legislature.

There was a good size audience in Mozart hall last evening to hear the music given by the ladies of the Order of the Eastern Star. The entertainment was in every way a success, thanks to the energy of Mrs. R. H. Taylor and Mrs. C. V. Mulholland.

Every [illegible] house which has played the first numbers on the programme and as usual was warmly received. Mr. Claude Dunning, a gentleman from Ft. Worth, Texas, read two or three selections that greatly pleased the audience. Mrs. Mulholland sang "The Old Lock" very acceptably. The lady has a good contralto voice that the public has not had the pleasure of hearing much of late years. Mr. Dennett, who is one of the best young pianists of the city, played exceedingly well. The next number was one of the best on the programme, a trio on banjos and guitar by Mrs. Taylor and Messrs. Mort Parsons and A. H. Deanna. They were compelled to respond to an encore. Mr. Herbert Stote followed with a solo. His fine baritone voice is an attraction with any musical entertainment in this city and he is always warmly received. Mr. Metel Horn played two selections on the piano, one from Rich and one of Schubert's. Both were given with much feeling and showed the lady an accomplished pianist. Mrs. Taylor sang, "Thine Eyes So Blue," displaying her well trained soprano voice. She was compelled to responded to an encore. In fact, nearly every member on the program was encored.

Canary Birds Come from Germany.

"There's a funny thing about canary birds," said a Ninth street bird fancier yesterday, "and that is the fact that they don't come from the Canary Islands at all. Most people think they do, but they don't. In fact the birds on the Canary Islands are all green. Canary birds really come from Germany. On a rough estimate I should say that fully 150,000 are imported to this country every year. Of these about 15,000 come to Philadelphia, where they bring anywhere from $1.50 to $5 apiece.

"It is a remarkable industry this trade in canary birds. The importations are controlled almost entirely by two New York firms who have agents buyers in Germany. Nearly every German steamer that arrives in New York brings large consignments of the little warblers. Each bird has its own cage, and the cages are made up in crates of 100 each. Captains are owned for their seamanship qualities and stand the voyage like veterans. It is rarely that any of them die en route. They receive the best of care, and each shipment is accompanied by a man whose duty is to see that they get all they want to eat and are well cared for generally.—Philadelphia Ledger.

MONS ELECTED SPEAKER

Mr. Mellen's Eightful Delineation Marred by Committee Credentials—Mr. Bareis is President Pro Tem of the Senate.

Denver, Jan. 4.—The Ninth general assembly convened this morning in the old assembly building precisely at 12 o'clock. At high noon when Deputy-sheriff Inman opened the bolts of the main entrance, the crowd of spectators crowded into the building and so great was the rush that the storm doors were broken and the storm entrance demolished. The spectators crowded into the house chamber, where the greatest interest was centered, and the overflow continued to rush up the stairs to the senate chamber, where another contest was imminent over the presidency pro tem.

The house got no time in getting down to business. Chief-clerk Willits of the last assembly stepped briskly upon the platform, and in due form declared the assembly called.

His call for nominations for chief clerk was followed by Mr. Bourque of Arapahoe, who nominated John R. Wallingford of Garfield county. Mr. Willits was also nominated, but he declined. Mr. Bromley, who represented the fusion of Populists and Democrats, nominated Mr. Smith of Lake county.

Upon the vote being recorded some confusion ensued, due to the vote of Mr. Harper, a Republican member from Elbert county, for Will Smith. There was also some confusion of votes at from the Republican side of the house and Mr. Harper, who had voted for Wallingford.

[illegible] Mr. Bareis, the president pro tem of the senate, called the house to order. He said that he was proud to be the recipient of the honor of being president pro tem of the senate. He was sorry that the senate was not in a position to do business, but he was in hopes that it would be in a few days

Being Int. Ane 4

"What ought to be done to a man It is more usually a woman, though who hand leaps you in an introduction by telling the other party that you are a prodigy of genius?" That was a question asked at a little talk of clubmen Do you know Mrs L—? continued the questist, Well that's her favorite style. She is one of the kindest women in the world, but does let her introduce you to any one Here's the way she went on when she introduced me to S the artist Mr S, let me make you acquainted with Mr B You'll find him the most charming fellow you ever met—the wittiest brightest, most intellectual, most experienced man I know And you Mr B—, will find Mr S —one of the most honest, interesting and sincere men in the world You know his pictures, and you know from them that he is a genius. I'm so glad that you are to know each other

Then she went away and left us looking at each other like a couple of fools We said something about the weather I believe, and parted Awhile afterward a friend asked me how I liked S — Don't like him at all, regular chump' said I 'That's odd, said he, for it's exactly what he says of you Well S— and I met each other in an offhand way afterward, and we have got so that we like one another pretty well But that introduction disgusted both of us"—New York Recorder

The Stages of Mourning.

The effort to preserve the fitness of things seems to have reached its height in a case recently heard of, where a wealthy young woman an extremist and impressionist, it goes without saying, has had the furnishings of her own room conform to the various stages of a bereavement In the first depths of her grief black fur rugs alone broke the lusterless polish of the floor of her room, which had been ebonized, a couch covered with dull black cloth and piled with black satin pillows set the pace for the rest of the furniture, which was equally somber

Curtains of soft black crepon fell over shear white muslin ones at the windows, and a [illegible] pillow covers of hemstitched linen with broad black borders like an exaggerated mourning handkerchief kept up the funeral suggestion As time wore on, however, more and more white crept in, till a white floor, white [illegible] a white tinsel with white mull [illegible] the [illegible] ling gloom of the previous settings

This white burst finally [illegible] with and to the [illegible] violet until now, when [illegible] of [illegible] pink give [illegible] evidence of a return to [illegible] life —Her Point of View in New York

TESTS ON ANIMALS.

THE KNOWLEDGE THEY YIELD IN PHYSIOLOGY.

Facts Concerning the Discoveries Due to Intelligent Vivisection Its Results Add to the Certainties of the Medical Art. How Harvey Worked.

The discussion of the church congress on the subject of Experiments Upon Living Animals and the correspondence which followed it have naturally led to some renewal of interest in the whole of the questions involved and especially in one of them on which, in the opinion of most people, the decision concerning others should depend We refer to the question of the actual benefit to the human race, or even to the lower animals themselves, which these experiments have been the means of conferring, and we propose to set [illegible] some of the [illegible] in a manner calculated to be intelligible to unmedical readers.

The words "experimentation on living animals" cover a very wide range of procedure, and it may therefore be desirable, in the first place, to attempt to classify experimental work with reference to its nature and objects Experiments are performed.

As an orderly series intended to ascertain the functions of organs or assemblages of organs in the human or animal body

As detached proceedings, intended to decide some single questions which may arise during the course of an illness or in the progress of a medico-legal investigation, such a question, for example, as the practicability and applicability of a proposed operation or the nature of a poison which defies chemical analysis.

Either singly or in series, for the purpose of ascertaining the initial and ultimate action of some drug upon the human organism, with the view either of testing its value as a remedial agent or of guarding, by antidote or otherwise, against its injurious effects.

Inoculation and feeding experiments, intended to identify the specific microbe of some disease and to [illegible] it, and if so, in what degree, its virulence is capable of being destroyed or mitigated by cultivation or other means.

[illegible] the experiments which fall under one or other of the above groups there may be others which it would be difficult to classify, but the groups will serve to include the greater number [illegible] will [illegible] which [illegible] have [illegible] in [illegible]
